

Sub-Recommendation 3: DOE Approvals

Sub-Recommendation 3.a. Establish requirements in DOE Standard 1104 for timely periodic DOE reviews of facility safety bases to ensure they meet the requirements of 10 CFR 830.

DOE accepts this sub-recommendation. DOE commits to evaluating DOE Standard 1104 or other DOE directive(s) and revising directives and technical standards, as necessary, to incorporate DOE's expectations for the review of facility safety bases to ensure they meet the requirements of 10 CFR part 830. The Implementation Plan will further describe the steps that will be taken to address this sub-recommendation.

Sub-Recommendation 3.b. Establish clear requirements in DOE Standard 1104 for DOE approval of JCOs and ESSs for PISAs that result in a positive USQ determination.

DOE accepts this sub-recommendation. The Implementation Plan will further describe the steps that will be taken to address this sub-recommendation.

Sub-Recommendation 3.c. Update 10 CFR 830 to incorporate the requirements established per items 3.a and 3.b.

DOE accepts this sub-recommendation with the understanding that while the Department has accepted sub-recommendations 3.a and 3.b, any future resulting requirements can be implemented in several policy documents (i.e., DOE rules, directives, or technical standards) and DOE cannot commit to a specific outcome in a future rulemaking. However, DOE will perform a regulatory analysis to evaluate whether any changes to 10 CFR part 830 should be proposed through a future rulemaking process.

Sub-Recommendation 4: Evaluation of DSA Preparation and Review Processes

Sub-Recommendation 4.a. Conduct an independent review of contractor and federal processes to identify and evaluate the underlying issues that prevented the annual submittal and approval of high-quality safety basis documents, and use the findings to improve the relevant processes.

DOE accepts this sub-recommendation. This sub-recommendation is related to the Board's concerns with the deletion of the requirement for review and approval of the annual updates to the DSA in the recent 10 CFR part 830 Rulemaking (final Rule published October 19, 2020, 85 FR 66201). DOE's acceptance of this sub-recommendation does not constitute its agreement that there is a safety concern associated with the October 19, 2020, final Rule, nor that there were underlying safety issues with the annual submittal and approval of high-quality safety basis documents. However, DOE is committed to continuous improvement and will conduct an independent review of the current safety basis development processes to determine whether improvements may be made for future submittals.

Sub-Recommendation 5: Safety Basis Process and Requirements

Sub-Recommendation 5.a. Establish clear requirements for USQs and JCOs in an order or invoked standard, including elevation of key concepts and guidance from DOE Guide 424.1–1. While developing these requirements, address issues discussed in the Board's letter dated July 10, 2020.

DOE accepts this sub-recommendation. DOE will evaluate the nuclear safety management framework (i.e., DOE directives and technical standards) to determine the best approach to establish requirements for USQs and JCOs. The Board's July 10, 2020, letter will be considered as part of this effort. The Implementation Plan will further describe the steps that will be taken to address this sub-recommendation.

Sub-Recommendation 5.b. Establish clear requirements for TSRs in an order or invoked standard, including elevation of key concepts and guidance from DOE Guide 423.1–1. While developing these requirements, address issues discussed in DNFSB Technical Report 45, Violations of the Nuclear Safety Basis.

DOE accepts this sub-recommendation. DOE will evaluate the nuclear safety management framework (i.e., DOE directives and technical standards) to determine the best approach to establish requirements for Technical Safety Requirements. The Board's Technical Report 45 will be considered as part of this effort. The Implementation Plan will further describe the steps that will be taken to address this sub-recommendation.

Sub-Recommendation 5.c. Establish requirements for SACs by invoking DOE Standard 1186 in an appropriate DOE order.

DOE accepts this sub-recommendation. DOE will evaluate the nuclear safety management framework (i.e., DOE directives and technical standards) to determine the best approach to establish requirements for Specific Administrative Controls. The Implementation Plan will further describe the steps that will be taken to address this sub-recommendation.

Sub-Recommendation 5.d. Update 10 CFR 830 to incorporate the requirements established per items 5.a through 5.c.

DOE accepts this sub-recommendation with the understanding that while the Department has accepted sub-recommendations 5.a through 5.c, any future resulting requirements can be implemented in several policy documents (i.e., DOE rules, directives, or technical standards) and DOE cannot commit to a specific outcome in a future rulemaking effort. However, DOE will perform a regulatory analysis to evaluate whether any changes to 10 CFR part 830 should be proposed through an additional rulemaking process.

Sub-Recommendation 5.e. Establish requirements in 10 CFR 830 regarding the concept of defense-in-depth.

DOE accepts this sub-recommendation with the understanding that while the Department agrees to evaluate the need for additional requirements regarding the concept of defense-in-depth, DOE cannot commit to a specific outcome in a future rulemaking process. However, DOE will perform a regulatory analysis to evaluate whether any changes to 10 CFR part 830 should be proposed through an additional rulemaking process.
